

The F Word

A conversational card game that teaches active intersectional feminism through encouraging empathy

Katie Buecker
Miami University

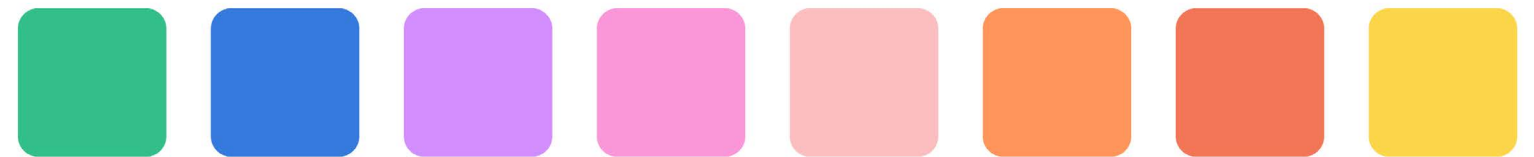

Brand Vision

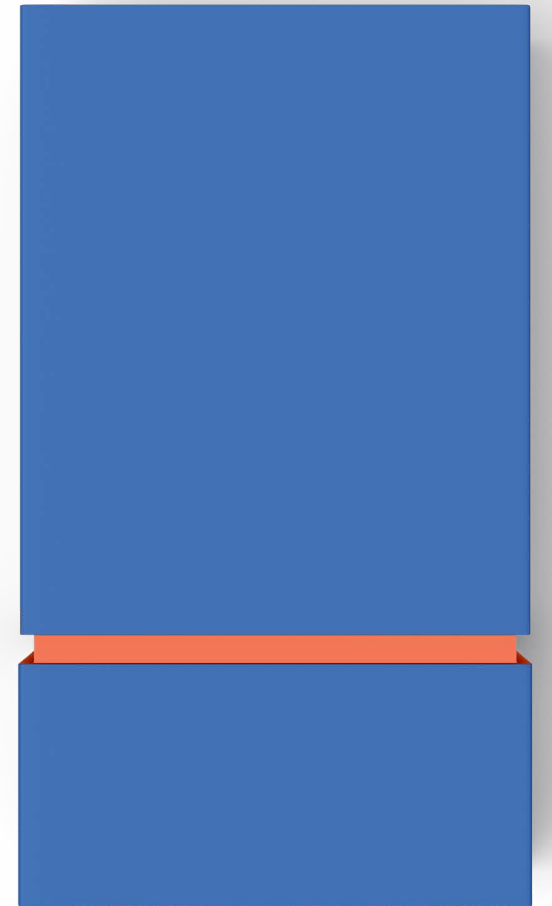

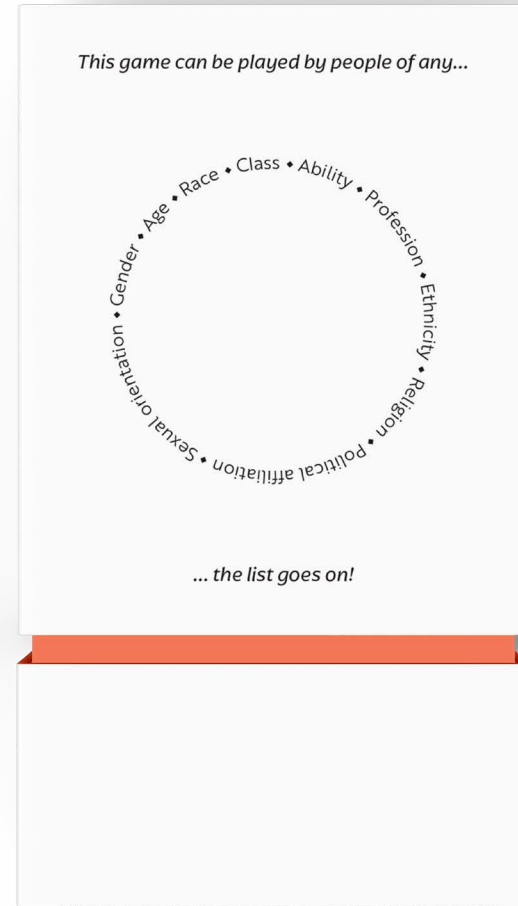

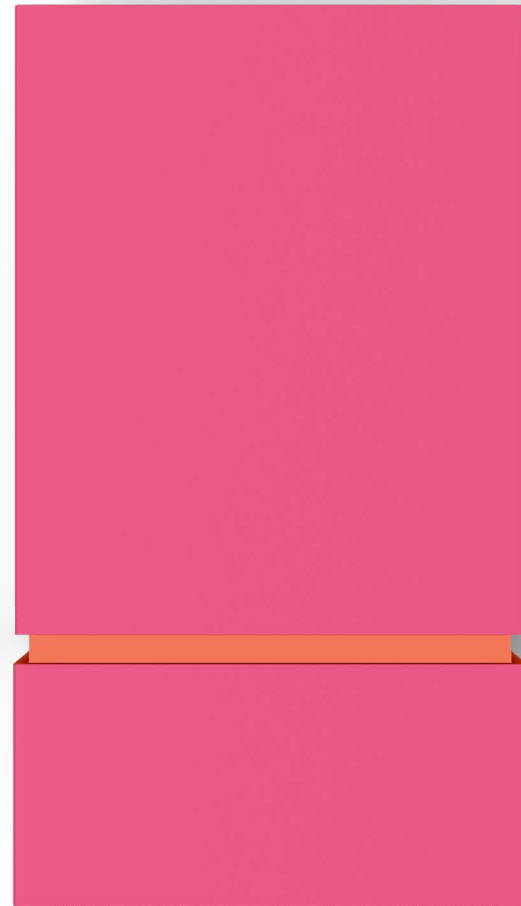

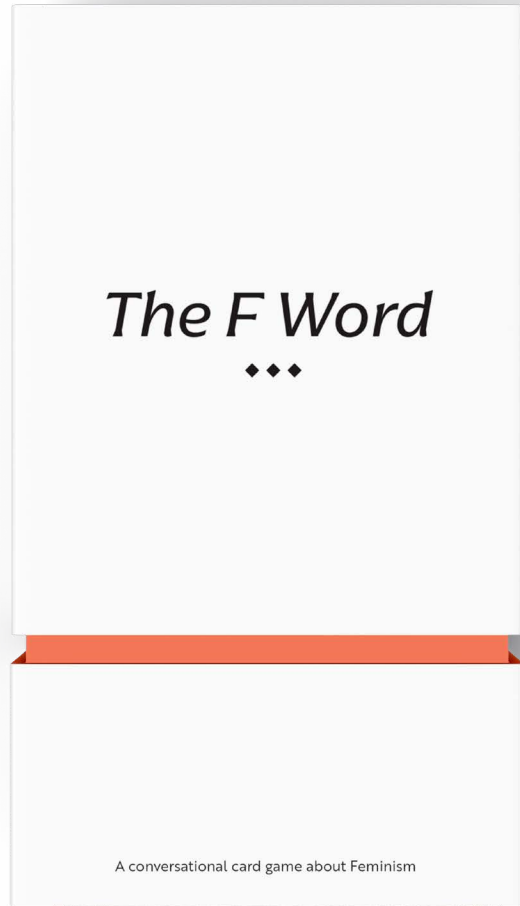

Title

Heading
Subheading

Lorem ipsum dolor sit
amet, consectetur
adipiscing elit, sed
diam nonummy nibh

lets talk.

if you take anything
this game, i hope it's and curiosity to have difficult conversatio

pull up a seat to th
keep asking ques

it's okay to char

Tr

a note from the maker...

about
by looking at you?

Some of these factors include gender, age, weight, religion, socioeconomic status.

What
privileges do you benefit from?

Which of these privileges had you never benefit from these identities? brought about before? How do you

Are you a male? White? Middle or upper class? Educated? Able-bodied?

Have you
changed your mind about anything
recently?

If you think you're being rational but others aren't and they're bad at thinking to check your biases.

What are different identities that someone
could claim?

What are some of your identities?
Which are the most important to you?

Sexuality, socioeconomic ability, ethnic, religion, gender, age, weight, political affiliation.

What is the first thing you notice about someone?

How might these traits influence your first impression of them?

Pause and reflect on your potential biases before interacting with people certain groups to reduce reflexive reactions.